Attackers shoot through

BY NICK HIGGINS

AT 12.50am yesterday two young men walked up to the front door of a Glenroy house.

They knocked, which brought the two occupants, an older man and woman, to the door.

"Are you Rolf Kaiser?" one of the young men asked.

The older man said he was. Almost immediately, one of the young men pointed a gun at Mr Kaiser and shot him, once in each leg.

The two young men, believed to be wearing balaclavas, then fled in a late model Holden Commodore.

The pair remain at large and Albury detectives are yet to reach any conclusion as to why Mr Kaiser was attacked.

He is still in the Albury Base Hospital following emergency surgery.

The incident has left many in the Glenroy community feeling vulnerable and uneasy.
